Houston, TX – Early voting for the May 6, 2017 election starts Monday, April 24 and ends on May 2. The Harris County Clerk's office will conduct elections for eight political subdivisions serving over 900,000 registered voters in Harris County. Fifty-four additional political entities in Harris County will also conduct elections on the same day. The deadline to submit an application for a mail ballot is April 25.

Voters residing in the political entities in which the County Clerk is running the election can find sample ballots, the early voting schedule, and the election day polling locations at www.HarrisVotes.com. The County Clerk's office is conducting elections for the City of Humble, City of Pasadena, Houston Independent School District, Humble Independent School District, Northgate Crossing Municipal Utility District 2, Northwest Harris County Municipal Utility District 28, Oakmont Public Utility District, Harris County Water Control & Improvement District 91.

Voters in the other political subdivisions within the county may visit the www.HarrisVotes.com website to find out if there is an election taking place in their area by searching via the "Find Your Poll" search engine. Over half of the county's 2.2 million registered voters are eligible to vote in a May 6 election.

"Contact information for the political entities is provided via the "Find Your Poll" search engine on www.HarrisVotes.com," said Harris County Clerk Stan Stanart, the county's chief election officer. "Voters should communicate directly with political entities conducting their own elections to obtain more information about their elections and voting locations."

For more information about the acceptable forms of photo identification and other means to vote at the poll, the requirements to vote by mail, the early voting period and voting on election day in the upcoming May elections, voters may visit www.HarrisVotes.com or call 713.755.6965.
